THE DEFINITE NEED for a bus terminal further removed from the business district may be seen by the above picture. This picture was taken during the middle of the day and not at morning or evening rush hours.

Driveways, places of business and streets are completely blocked by the parked buses waiting their turns to proceed on regular runs.

Let's hope that trackless trolleys will make a vast improvement in the traffic snarl and tie-up as above depicted.

If the trolleys don't alleviate the situation a bus terminal far removed from this congested traffic corner would seem the only solution.

New Trackless Trolley Coaches To Replace Buses On 14 Line

Sometime next year the motor coaches on the number 14 line will be replaced by new trackless trolleys, according to Tom Irwin, Director of Public Service in San Francisco.

A contract for the $67,869 installation project, which is now about one tenth complete, was awarded July 16, 1951.

An order was placed also for 40 additional trackless coaches, some of which are due for delivery next month and the rest scheduled for delivery by November 1.

Under the original stipulations of the contract, the completion date was set for November 11, 1951, but a shortage of copper cables has prolonged construction time, Mr. Irwin indicated.

Much more money has been spent in tearing up street-car tracks on Mission street than was specified in the contract, but this expenditure was not included in the $67,869 construction estimate.

The number 9 line and the number 14 line will be consolidated and known as the 14 line, but the trackless trolley coaches will continue to travel the same routes as their motor-driven predecessors.

There will be three termini—Phelan and Ocean avenues (near City College of San Francisco), Crescent avenue and Mission street, and San Jose avenue and Mission street.

Plans have been approved for the Phelan and Ocean terminus, which will be the only new addition to the system.

According to Mr. Irwin, the "K" street car line will continue to operate in conjunction with the newly proposed 14 trackless trolley line.

DOG POISONINGS ARE ON INCREASE HERE

Dog poisonings continue in Daly City with several more reports of dogs being killed in this manner reported to Daly City police during the past week.

Persons whose dogs died under circumstances and with symptoms indicative of poisoning are Andrew Schrader, 215 Los Banos avenue; Mrs. Warren, 445 Vista Grande; Mrs. Foster, 40 Woodrow street and Mrs. Tomlinson, 241 Station avenue.

These poisonings took place last Friday and Saturday.

Children Do NOT Play On Park Bldg. Roof In The Daytime

In last week's Record a picture of children playing on the roof of a building at Marchbanks Park has caused some quite unnecessary confusion, so to speak.

Although the children are to be seen on the roof of the building they were "posed" there through the cooperation of playground directors with the Record photographer.

This roof-top play is never in evidence when the playground directors are on the job during the day, but happens at night when the children are on their own.

The purpose of the picture was to show what may happen at night and to show the need for a fence or barrier of some kind solely for the protection of the more adventuresome youngsters.

Education

Must Understand New Traffic Signals Thoroughly

Chief of Police Roland Petrocchi this week took strides to educate the general public in the proper use of the pedestrian crossing signals at the top of the hill. He stresses the fact that persons wishing to cross streets where the signals are in use MUST push the signal buttons located on the traffic signal posts.

In cases where persons do not press said buttons they may wait practically forever and the Walk signal will not appear. However, following the appearance of the green Walk signal the first Red Wait signal is merely a precautionary signal similar to the old amber caution signal and still allows a person plenty of time to finish crossing the street. But, those on the sidewalks who have not started across should wait for the next Walk signal.

The chief is doing his best to help educate the general pedestrian public in the proper use of the signals, and also to stress their proper use to all school children.

Whether or not it will be possible to station police officers at these signals at school opening and closing times and when the heaviest pedestrian traffic occurs, Chief Petrocchi does not know. He states that he will do everything in his power to safeguard the school children and general pedestrian public.

If possible he would like to station police officers in strategic spots to help people get used to the new traffic control system.

OPLH SCHOOL OPENS TUESDAY SEPTEMBER 4TH

by Mrs. Edna Cubic

Tuesday, September 4, portends a lot of activity for many people, particularly around Our Lady of Perpetual Help School, and the Mothers' Club will welcome the mothers of all newly enrolled pupils at breakfast in the school hall.

The shining countenances of more than 400 boys and girls, reflecting their eagerness to get back to school, will be assembled once more to tackle the three R's.

Not without a feeling of trepidation, some of the mothers will breathe a sigh of relief—others with a heavy heart see their "ba-

Legion Women Open Membership Drive

Inaugurating its membership drive series of social functions, the Broadmoor American Legion Auxiliary, Unit No. 824, held a "Come As You Are Breakfast" August 22 at the home of Mrs. Peggy Merchant, 1835 Sweetwood drive.

Co-hostess was Mrs. Evelyn Toschi. The two hostesses drove around to the homes of the prospective guests and surprised them with the invitation to breakfast. Each guest was required to attend just as she was dressed when she answered the doorbell to receive the two hostesses.

Attending the breakfast were Mrs. Kay Logan, Mrs. Toni Henry, Mrs. Betty Hood, Mrs. Marge Verba and the children of the guests.

That same afternoon and also as a part of the membership drive, a canasta party was in session at the home of Mrs. Katy Flanagan, 423 91st street. Delicious refreshments were served at the conclusion of the afternoon of cards.

Present were Mrs. Wilma McKee, Mrs. Kay Logan, Mrs. Alma Dier, Mrs. Gail Foster, Mrs. Betty Kass, Mrs. Doris Snover and Mrs. Dolly Lepine.

COLMA RENT CONTROL HEARING SCHEDULED

To consider the further need of rent control in Colma, the city council there has scheduled a special meeting for September 12 at 9 a.m.

All those wishing to protest against decontrol are asked to appear at this council session. It is thought that the council will do as other Peninsula cities have done and petition the federal government to eliminate rent control in Colma.

To Repair Park Bldg.

CONSIDER ESTIMATES TO PUT FACILITIES IN "A-1" CONDITION

Extensive repairing of the utility building at Marchbanks Park is underway with estimates being considered for the various aspects of the project by D. Anderson, city administrator.

This was announced at the regular monthly meeting of the board of the Daly City Recreation committee held Tuesday night at the city hall.

Decision on the estimates will be made within a week or so and then actual work on the building will begin as soon as men and materials are available, Anderson stated.

In detail, repairs to the building will include work on the roof, walls, vent and on the showers and other plumbing. The undertaking will necessitate the duties of a building contractor, a metal and roofing man and a plumber among others.

Further business on Tuesday night's agenda included the outline of the fall recreation program by Elman Rose. The program, passed on favorably by the board members, keeps Marchbanks and Lincoln playgrounds open seven days a week, under the supervision of Recreation department directors, and Frankfort playground open seven days a week also, but for the most part supervised by school directors.

Hours when Marchbanks and Lincoln playgrounds will be open are: on weekdays, 3 to 5:30 p.m.; on Saturdays from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. and on Sundays, from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The Frankfort playground's schedule is, on weekdays, 3:30 to 5 p.m., and on Saturdays from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Improvement and repair needs of all the playgrounds was presented in diagramed form to the other committee members present by County Investigation To Continue Says D.A.

Sunderland To Retire Due To 'Poor Health'

Sergeant Roland Petrocchi was chosen to serve as acting chief of police in the absence of Wilbur W. Sunderland by a unanimous vote of the Daly City Council at a regularly scheduled council meeting Monday night.

Prior to Petrocchi's temporary appointment, the council also agreed to grant a request by Sunderland for sick-leave effective Monday evening.

As stipulated in his request, Sunderland will return to duty April 1 for retirement. It is presumed that Sunderland will apply for a leave of absence from the force at the termination of his illnes until the April 1 date.

According to Inspector A. L. Lamport of the district attorney's office Sunderland's request for sick leave has not impeded the district attorney's investigation.

"The district attorney is continuing with a full-scale investigation of bookmaking operations in Daly City at the present time," Mr. Lamport said.

Sunderland's request for sick leave and subsequent retirement came shortly after San Mateo District Attorney Louis B. Dematteis reaffirmed his investigation "to get to the bottom" of Daly City bookmaking operations.

Chief Sunderland has been under fire by the county law enforcement agencies for allegedly neglecting to follow up a complaint of suspected bookmaking operations at 250 Citrus avenue.

County law enforcement officers raided the address and arrested two well-known bookies—Danny Capece and Albert Leffler—and confiscated important records.

In commenting on his successor,

Westlake To Start PTA Organization For New School

Plans are being formulated for a new Parent-Teacher's Association for the anticipated opening of the new Westlake Elementary school, according to Mr. Charles Becker of the Westlake Property Owner's Association.

Leaders from the James Snell unit of the Garden Village school are cooperating with residents of Westlake to organize the new unit.

"Fathers as well as mothers are invited to take an active part in this oragnization," said Mr. Becker. "We will endeavor to have evening meetings so that everyone may participate."

Mrs. Peter Zenovich, future principal of the elementary school, has given her approval for the formation of this organization, according to Mr. Becker.

"Those parents who are interested in becoming charter members of this new organization send notice of their intention to me, the school activities board or the Westlake Property Owner's Association," Mr. Becker said.

"An organization of this type is one of our more important democratic institutions," Mr. Becker emphasized. "It helps to develop and mold better children by bringing the parents in closer harmony with the school."

TRUMPET STOLEN

Three Places Entered; That's All Was Taken

Three places were entered here during the past week with only one trumpet stolen according to records at the Daly City police station. The musical instrument was taken from the home of Lilburn C. Watts, 319 San Diego avenue sometime last Friday.

The Fear home at 478 Bellevue avenue was broken into while the family were on their vacation but nothing was taken. The only clue to the incident was the stopping of

D. A. TOM LYNCH GUEST SPEAKER AT LIONS CLUB

The Daly City Lion's club held a joint meeting with the West of Twin Peak's chapter at the Colonial restaurant Wednesday and 25 local members attended the luncheon, according to Hal Willis of the D. C. Cleaners.

Guest speaker Tom Lynch, district attorney of San Francisco, was introduced by the program chairman of the West Portal chapter.

District Attorney Lynch gave the assembled members a rundown on the operation of his office in San Francisco.

According to Mr. Willis, the district attorney said that 40 percent of the alcoholics who attend the juvenile hall on Otis street on a voluntary basis for treatment never return for further treatment.

Mr. Lynch also told the group that the San Francisco district attorney's office differed from other cities because of the city-county arrangement and that his office deals only with criminal complaints and not civil action.

One of the newest developments in his office, the district attorney pointed out, is the new domestic relations counselors who are not social workers, but deputy district attornies who are empowered to make arrests when the occasion demands.

Next Wednesday the Daly City Lions will again hold their meeting at the Club Casino.

LOCAL MAN TO ATTEND LUNCHEON FOR HARRY TRUMAN

Julius F. Castelan, 862 Bellevue avenue, will attend the luncheon honoring President Harry S. Truman at the Fairmont Hotel Tuesday at 1 p.m.

Mr. Castelan received his invitation to this event in the Gold Room of the hotel by means of a telegram from Mrs. Edward H. Heler, Democratic National Committee woman for California. Mrs. Heller is hostess for the occasion.

NO ONE SEEMS QUITE CERTAIN TODAY what is going to happen to this beautiful stretch of beach at Daly City's back door. The city has still to either accept or reject the beach, and the county has made no move to improve it. Some action, one way or the other, is needed immediately.

D. A. TO CONTINUE D. C. INVESTIGATION

Chief Sunderland said, "Sergeant Pettrocchi is extremely efficient and entirely capable of carrying out his new assignment."

Petrocchi, a 10-year veteran of the police force, resides at 46 Mission Circle with his wife and 7-year-old son, Ronald.

After the temporary appointment was approved, George Kirchhubel, 308 Vista Grande avenue, asked the council if any measures were being taken to supplement the police force with an additional police officer to integrate police administration.

Mayor Green assured him that a "captain or lieutenant" would be appointed to serve under the chief of police.

The present police organization consists of the chief of police and four sergeants, but there is no allowance for an intermediate officer.

Other Business

A new contract with the Daly City Scavanger company was approved by the council. Mr. Kirchhubel asked the council if it was mandatory under the contract for residents to place their garbage cans on the street.

He said that many elderly people are unable to comply with this procedure.

Mayor Green responded that the garbage disposal rate in Daly City is lower because of this arrangement, and anyone unable to comply with this regulation should notify the company.

A payment of $1500 was authorized, on account, to R. A. Klassen for construction work on the new Knowles street project.

Mr. Leonard Wester, 337 Knowles avenue, asked the council if it would be possible to make the new Knowles project a one-way street, running West to East.

Mayor Green responded that nothing can be done until "the street has been constructed and then the traffic pattern will indicate the steps to be taken." We will give the matter careful consideration," the mayor said.

WATCH INTERSECTIONS

City intersections are potential danger spots, especially those that do not have stop signs. Always be prepared to stop quickly at corners, even when driving on through streets, warns the California State Automobile Association.

SAN FRANCISCO READIES FOR ANY ATOMIC BOMB EVENTUALITIES

Headquarters

Through the cooperation of Archbishop John J. Mitty, Bishop Karl Morgan Block, Rabbi Saul E. White, Mr. Neal K. McGowan, President of the San Francisco Council of Churches, and Mr. James A. Vincent of the Christian Science Committee on Publications, letters are being sent out to all San Francisco churches and synagogues requesting their assistance in preparing the city for disaster. The letters stress the tense international situation, urge enlistments by members in Civil Defense services, and request the preparation and operation of social halls as emergency centers. Each letter is accompanied by a questionnaire on details as to how a group can fit into the Civil Defense plan.

Medical

The Hospital Organization Committee, headed by Dr. Charles R. Mallary and Colonel Chester S. Harris, USA (Ret.) has completed a survey of all hospitals in San Francisco. The committee inspected each hospital, and surrounding area, in an effort to determine possible expansion of each hospital in the event of an emergency. Results of the survey and inspections have been compiled. There are 9,364 hospital beds in San Francisco hospitals at present. The survey showed that additional space accommodating an additional 46,190 beds can be made available by using existing school buildings, nurses' homes, and other facilities near the hospitals. The Hospital Organization Committee has as members, in addition to the two physicians, two hospital administrators, L. A. Moran of the Laguna Honda Home, and E. C. H. Pearson of the French Hospital. The Committee is working with the hospitals in helping them plan for the maximum utilization and expansion of their facilities in preperation for a disaster.

Police

Thirty-six members of the San Francisco Auxiliary Police Reserve will march in the Admission Day Parade in Oakland on September 9. As a part of their on-duty training, members of the Reserve will be detailed as guards at the Japanese Art Exhibit at the De Young Museum beginning September 5.

Warden Service

The 22-hour Warden Training Course which began August 6 in Battalion 9 was extended this week to Battalions 5 and 7. The same course will start September 17 in Battalion 8 and will begin in other battalions thereafter. Daniel D. Rowlands, Warden of Battalion 9, says: "The warden training classes have had a definite bearing on new member registrations as many non-members have heard many favorable reports, attended, an dstayed to sign on." Headquarters of Battalion 8 at 1541 Taraval Street have been opened.

Rescue and First Aid

More than forty persons including section chiefs, doctors, and nurses attended a meeting of District 8 of the Rescue and First Aid Service Wednesday night at Roosevelt Junior High School. Speakers included Admiral Cook, Thomas Larke Jr., Rescue and First Aid Chief and Meyer Ladenheim, District Chief. Deputy Chiefs of District 8 are Anthony Ignoffo and Anthony Zanco and Section Chiefs are Henry Rosenthal, K. L. Palmer, Arnold Gridley, William J. Courtney, Nick Gaglierde, William P. Gross and Ernest Busk.

Ground Observer Corps

The Filter Center in Oakland which, when placed in full operation, will keep track of the movements of planes over a 60,000 square mile area observed its first anniversary Tuesday. The Center, which replaced the San Francisco Filter Center of World War II, is now operating on a training basis. Operated by the Air Force with volunteer personnel, the Center when in full operation would receive reports from the widespread Ground Corps posts.

Transportation

The State Office of Civil Defense has clarified the emergency use of interstate vehicles by municipalities immediately following a disaster. The local Civil Defense organization will be permitted to use such vehicles during the first hours of an emergency but must report the availability of such to state headquarters as soon as possible for their use elsewhere after they have served their purpose in the stricken area. This assures the immediate use of such services as bus lines, highway transport, and railway. The various segments of transportation may now expect a strong drive to complete loyalty oaths and registration cards of drivers, operators and company men so as to insure their enrollment under Civil Defense regulations.

State

If atomic attack comes to California 60,000 persons will be casualties from an air burst or suffer flesh or other type burns, according to Major General Walter M. Robertson, State Director of Civil Defense. "The work the Red Cross is now doing in training citizens of California in first aid may save thousands of lives," General Robertson said. "I hope this may inspire men and women to enroll in a first aid course at their nearest Red Cross Chapter. We need 3,500,000 trained first aiders in California."

REDUCE SPEED LIMITS FOR BAYSHORE HIWAY

Sacramento, Aug. 30. (CNS)—Reduction of speed limits on portions of the Bayshore Highway were announced recently by George T. McCoy, state highway engineer.

McCoy said a 45-mile speed limit will apply through San Mateo, Redwood City, East Palo Alto, adjacent to Moffett Field, and from a quarter-mile north of the San Jose-Alviso Road to the San Jose express-way, for a total of 9.7 miles.

A 35-mile limit will apply for .08 mile in East Palo Alto, and for .06 mile at the south gate to Moffett Field.

McCoy said the division has just completed a 32 mile survey on Bayshore highway, which took accident records, prevailing speeds, highway development and frequency of intersections into consideration.

He said installation of speed limit signs has started, and in addition to the signs reducing speeds, 55 mile per hour signs, the state speed limit, will be placed to remind drivers of the state speed limit.

Commissioner Clifford Peterson of the California Highway Patrol said he would point his special patro lsquad in the new speed zone areas for the time being.

McCoy warned that "the reduced sped limits and other traffic control measures such as traffic signals and warning signs will not in themselves solve the traffic accident problem on Bayshore.

"The real solution of this serious situation rests with the people who use the highway. Motorists must conform to rules for speed and safe driving."

Pvt. Richard Dickson Completes His Basic Air Force Training

Pvt. Richard Dickson, 19, son of Mrs. D. Dickson, 538 Crocker avenue, has completed his AF basic airmen indoctrination course at Lackland Air Force Base, the "Gateway to the Air Force."

Lackland, situated near San Antonio, is the world's largest air force base, site of Air Force basic training, for men and women, headquarters of the Human Resource Research Center, and home of AF's Officer Candidate School.

His basic training has prepared him for entrance into Air Force technical training and for assignment in specialized work. The course included a scientific evaluation of his aptitude and inclination for following a particular vocation and career.

Broadmoor Community Nursery School Begins Third Year On September 11th

Some thirty children between the ages of two-and-a-half and five, also their parents, will be glad to know that the State licensed but privately operated Broadmoor Community Nursery School on west 87th Street will begin its third year on September 11 under the direction of Mrs. Jessie H. Glasse, and will meet from 9 to 12 every public school morning. The school uses the facilities of the Broadmoor Community Church, but it is not a religious school, children of various faiths being in its enrollment.

The values found in the school are many, and naturally vary according to the child and family and home environment, but the best interests of the child himself are always kept central in the purpose and life of the school.

Mother has her mornings free for rest or for housework, for the care of her other children, or to go shopping or visiting; and enjoys her child more because of his progress and the fresh interests he brings back into the home.

Father returns from work and finds a more rested wife, also a child more ready for companionship or play.

The child learns courtesy, to share, and to play more happily with other children. Coordination and other mental and physical characteristics develop more normally, and the child is made ready to go on in his school life with a minimum of difficulty in orientation.

Parent-teacher conferences further the spirit of cooperation so essential to effective work and the best results.

The activities indoors, and in the large enclosed playground outdoors, vary with the weather; and include a daily rest period and juice drink, songs and stories, rhythm band, finger painting and clay modeling, various Holgate toys, home units, building blocks, wagons and tricycles, sand boxes, swings and slides, and a Jungle Gym.

Parents interested in the few remaining vacancies in the limited enrolment of the school can contact Mrs. Glasse after September 5 by calling PLlaza 5-1334.

Fluoridation Of Water Supplies Gains Ground Thruout State

Sacramento — (CNS) — Despite religious opposition to the fluoridation of water supplies throughout the state, the process is gradually gaining ground, according to a report made by the state department of public health.

Already, thre California cities have decided to fluoridate their water supplies, Santa Cruz, Rio Vista in Solano county, and Pleasanton in Alameda county.

Flouridation is a process whereby fluorides are added to the water for prevention of tooth decay. In some eastern cities, and in cities where natural fluorides exist, surveys have indicated a definite decline in decay.

"Experience of eastern communities," the department says, "where fluorides had been added to water supplies has shown that from 50 to 65 percent of dental decay can be prevented if children drink water which contains very small amounts of this protective agent.

"Resistance to dental decay is built up by fluorides while the teeth are forming before birth, and up to ten years of age. This protection is then retained for life."

At the instance of lobbyists for the Christian Science church, a bill which would have given specific authorization for the adding of fluorine or fluorine compounds to all public water supplies, ended up during the 1951 session as a measure giving specific authority to water bottling companies to add such compounds to the water they market.

The Christian Science lobbyist led a winning fight against the wholesale authorization to add the chemicals, but it was later discovered the measure was not necessary, in view of the fact the cities and water districts have authority to take the action if they so desire, or if the communities want the added protection. Yet when Santa Cruz sought authorization, the process was again opposed on the religious principle.

Whether the latest pronouncement of the department of public health will halt further opposition is not known at this time, but the department holds that fluorides are not therapeutic agents, as they were formerly described, because they are effective only in prevention, and not in curing tooth decay.

"Therefore," the Department says, "the addition of fluorides to a public water supply is not a medication, as is sometimes claimed. Rther, it is strictly a preventive public health measure."

Despite the fact that fluoridation of water probably would mean less work for the dentists in years to come, the California State Dental Association nevertheless has taken the leadership in stimulating local action in adopting the process, and the department of health looks forward to seeing more California cities treat their water in an effort to create resistance to tooth decay.

Cars Collide At San Jose And Wilson Street

Property damage only was sustained by John Carnegie, 161 Crocker street, and Julio Koppl, 2639 37th avenue, San Francisco, when their automobiles collided Thursday morning.

The accident involving the sedan of Koppl and the pickup belonging to Carnegie took place at San Jose and Wilson streets.

Tuna San Mateo County Cities To "Fight In Court"

Sacramento, Aug. 30. (CNS)—A situation in which two San Mateo county cities will be involved in a lawsuit was revealed through an opinion of Attorney General Edmund G. Brown here today.

The city of Burlingame, through its city attorney, and the Mills Estate, Inc., asked permission from the attorney general to sue the city of Millbrae.

The suit will determine whether Millbrae has the right to exercise municipal jurisdiction over a 730 acre parcel of land, which the city of Burlingame and attorneys for the Mills Estate claim never was validly incorporated into Millbrae.

The permission to sue was granted as the validity of the incorporation is in question, the attorney general said.

DALY CITY'S POTENTIAL DEATH CROSSING. That is about the only way to describe the crossing from the Bank of America across Mission Street. With the new signals this crossing was taken out. However, hundreds of pedestrians still use it without paying much attention to the lights. (Photo by Pat Corner)

DEATH IS WAITING AT BANK CROSSING

A potential death trap for all Daly City residents these days is the Bank of America-Mission Street pedestrian crossing.

With the advent of the new signals, the state engineers worked out a new crossing system here. They assert it is much better, and safer than the old crossing.

Whether you agree with this or not it is a wise idea to give up an old habit . . . use the new crossing.

Cars no longer stop opposite the Bank, but proceed on about 100 feet. Consequently if you or your child use the old crossing you risk death every time you step off the curb.

Obviously the state isn't going to the additional expense of changing this plan. And, as this is the case, no one can be blamed for your injury or death but yourself.

Here's a case where using your eyes and your head instead of relying on a habit may well save your life.

The signals may not be to your liking, but obey them. Death is standing around waiting for some impatient pedestrian to ignore the new system of lights and traffic islands.

GOVERNMENT MEETINGS ARE PUBLIC PROPERTY

Every now and then you run into some public official who tries to keep something off the record or a reporter out of public meetings. The following, from a recent newspaper association bulletin, should be shown to every reporter and even published:

"Our obligations as a newspaper and public service seem to prescribe every so often that we remind office holders that while they are acting in the capacity of public officials, they are living in glass houses. Their private lives are immune to private prying as ever, but while they are discharging the duties which we citizens have elected them to do, their actions have no right to privacy, nor can they expect it.

"We do not know whether or not it is always the business of the newspapers what goes on in school board meetings or any other sessions held by public officials elected by and for us citizens, but of this we're sure—everything that goes on in a school board meeting, town council meeting, state legislature, or national congress is the business of the taxpaying citizens of our community, for short, called the public. And the public is kept informed about its business by the press.

"It is neither convenient or practical for every individual taxpayer to be present at sessions of public officials for the administration of public business. But all taxpaying citizens have the right to be as well informed about what goes on at these meetings as if they were there in person.

"Because we, as a newspaper, have the responsibility of keeping the public informed about what its elected officials are doing and the way they are handling the public's business, there will no censorship of the activities of vital interest to the public which supports it by taxes."—(C. N. P. A. Bulletin)

"HOW HIGH CAN TAXES GO?"

A 100 per cent tax on all taxable incomes over $4,000 would be required to meet the bill for the additional $10,000,000,000 (b) revenue which the Treasury Department contends is needed under the new Federal budget, says Roswell Magill, former Under-Secretary of the Treasury.

He makes this estimate in an article entitled "How High Can Taxes Go?" in the current issue of The Saturday Evening Post. His observations are made as the Senate finishes its work on a tax bill designed to yield $7,200,000,000 (b) on top of the $60,000,000,000 (b) that taxation already takes from our pockets—which the Treasury insists is inadequate.

Mr. Magill, who is president of the Tax Foundation, a non-profit research organization, and chairman of the Committee on Federal Tax Policy, points out that corporations, the well-to-do, and the moderately wealthy have already been squeezed pretty dry, taxwise.

Thus, he says, the burden must be passed on to the average citizen taxpayer, the man (or woman) in the lower brackets who already is paying more to Uncle Sam than he realizes because of hidden taxes. The total tax bill on a family with an annual income of $3,500 is estimated at $908. And a sobering note is injected into the picture by a Department of Labor survey which shows that the budgets of families across the land contain very little fat from which these extra taxes can be extracted.

Mr. Magill declares the steady rise of taxes to meet the mounting Federal budget is destroying the incentive to earn money because the risk is all with the individual. If his income rises, he makes a larger contribution to the income tax collector. But when a loss results, the burden is entirely upon him.

The issuance of bonds to pay Government bills instead of collecting enough taxes to balance Federal expenditures is held directly responsible for the inflation which makes a dollar now worth more than 50 cents. This has got to stop, Mr. Magill asserts, otherwise the dollar bill will go the way of the franc and the mark.

"One way to keep from going into debt is not to spend so much," Mr. Magill writes. "The Federal Government could try that plan, but it's very hard to do, for we have become used to thinking the other way. Everything ought to grow bigger and bigger—we've got plenty of money. Bigger government departments, with more divisions and bureaus and sections, so that half a dozen or fifty or one hundred people are workin on everything anyone can think of."

The only way to cut the budget down to size, he says, is to wipe the slate clean—to wipe off the old lush peacetime authorizations and start over again with a shorter list of items and a smaler total—a total that can be afforded in times like these. "It has been shown," Mr. Magill writes, "that seven to ten billions can be cut out of the budget without any real damage."

"If the Federal budget is cut that much," he adds, "we won't have to have any new taxes. But you'll have to do without some governmental frills. You'll have to get along without that new yacht basin in Bureau Creek, and maybe there won't be a Federal job for Johnnie or Mary."

Mr. Magill explains the impact of proposed taxation further by noting that Congres proposes to take 94.5 per cent of the top earnings of some, making the rates of Federal and State levies over 100 per cent. Only the fact that the Federal Government permits deductions of State income taxes prevents the big taxpayer from having to turn over more than he earns.

In the calendar year 1950, it is shown, United States tax receipts gobbled up about 29 per cent of the national income, and the point is made that a study supported by experience in Great Britain, Italy, Japan, Finland, Switzerland, and Denmark shows that a 25 per cent levy on the national income is the critical point where inflationary forces come into play. If the proposed Federal tax bill is passed, it will take about 32 per cent of the prospective higher national income. Mr. Magill concludes that under the circumstances, the Federal tax load has just about reached its limits.

Judge Bocci Stresses Need For More C.H.P. Officers To Patrol And Enforce Traffic Laws On Highways

A recent criticism has been directed toward the courts of our county with regard to the disposition of traffic matters, all of which seems to stem from the high fatality rate on th Bayshore Highway. It seems that this criticism hase emanated from the office of the State Vehicle Department through a Mr. Peterson, principally in that the local judges have not properly punished traffic violators.

I thought perhaps it might be well at this time to indicate the position of my court, inasmuch as other judges in the county have done likewise.

I feel satisfied that the various local judges, including myself, have handled the traffic citations in a manner conducive to respect for the rules of the highway.

In my particular case, my court has jurisdiction over the Bayshore Highway, and I have found during my tenure on the bench that the number of citations coming before my court for traffic violations on Bayshore Highway have been diminishing in recent months.

This may be due to either of two things: (1) That there is a general respect for the traffic laws on that stretch of the Bayshore which is encompassed in my township; or (2) That the State Highway Patrol does not asign sufficient officers to enforce the traffic laws in this area.

Whichever it be, there is certainly not warranted the criticism of the courts because of the failure to punish traffic violators. Traffic citations, like any other criminal violations, must be dealt with according to the extent of the violation, and the punishment must necessarily be commensurate with the crime. This court has not only fined violators, in a substantial amount, but has also imprisoned those violators where the offense was a flagrant one.

I might add that if there is any feeling that there is not sufficient enforcement of the laws on our highways, those complaints should be directed to those charged with the enforcement of traffic regulations on the highway, and not with the courts, which can only act on the matters that come before them by citation.

I trust that this will clarify the position of this court, and indicate that there will be complete cooperation with the enforcement of traffic rules and regulations, particularly on the Bayshore Highway.

Very truly yours,
Thomas L. Bocci Jr.

Vista Grande?

Vista Grande Restoration Committee Distributes Information Circulars

The Vista Grande Restoration Committee, a group of local citizens, is launching a campaign in an effort to restore to this community its original old spanish name—and by which it was known for many years — VISTA GRANDE.

The name VISTA GRANDE' was officially given this area by the Don Gaspar di Portola Exposition. It still appears on official government records, on Rand McNally maps and on present U. S. Post Office Department records.

About 50 years ago, the lustre of this beautiful spanish name started to fade from public mind, when, for apparently no logical reason and without the vote of the residents, the name was changed from Vista Grande' to "Daly City."

A patient and thorough research reveals no particular reason for the change; it was neither for historical nor traditional reasons; at any rate, a local dairymen had the name changed to honor himself. He has now faded into absolue obscurity.

The change of name was most strenuously objected to by local residents at the time. They were given no voice in the matter. Many far-sighted residents claimed it would materially reduce property values. It did exactly that!

Residents pointed out the contour of the land which would lend itself immediately to an excellent residential district of fine homes and that the adoption of the name "Daly City" would preclude such development. It did exactly that! Hence were built about this area the Crocker Amazon Tract, West Portal, St. Francis Wood, Millbrae and Burlingame.

Immediately after 1906, when the areas were building up with fine homes, this area, under the name "Daly City" became stagnant and started immediately to degenerate. According to the Post Office Department, many residents of Daly City are still using "San Francisco" as a mailing address and through constant usage, mail is delivered.

At the time the name was changed, residents strongly pointed out other spanish names delegated either by Fra Junipera Serra or the Portola Expedition, such as, Monterey, Palo Alto, San Juan, Paso Robles, San Jose, San Luis Obispo, Santa Barbara, San Mateo, Santa Rosa—they wanted to know the reason why, the logic, of eliminating Vista Grande, the most beautiful name of them all, from this neck-lace of spanish pearls that encircled the valleys of the State of California. The explanation was never forthcoming.

Now your Committee, entirely made up of old residents, feels that the characteristic spanish names are a part of Western living, adds local color, is filled with the romance and tradition of the west.

The Committee feels Vista Grande is far more appropriate—that it will restore the property values to the area; that it will influence trends of architecture and further, that it will immediately instill more pride in the Community; therefore its prime object is to RESTORE THE NAME VISTA GRANDE to the residents of Daly City.

Respectfully,
Vista Grande Restoration Committee

Record Reader Says Stop Signals A Menace To All

I also would like to put in my two cents worth about the signals. They stink, as most others have said. The children that go to kindergarten and first graders I'm worried about. They went to so much expense putting in these lights. Why in heaven's name, didn't they put in an underpass?

Mrs. John Geiger Bitten By Dog

Mrs. John Geiger, 204 Hillcrest drive, was bitten on the left forearm by a black dog while walking along the sidewalk in the locality of San Diego and Los Olivos avenue, last Thursday.

She was taken to the Junipero Serra hospital in a Daly City police car for treatment and afterwards returned to her home by local officers.

The culprit belongs to Mrs. J. W. Isachsen, 216 Los Olivos avenue who has promised to keep the animal under observation for 14 days.

FAILING SIGHT IS SUICIDE REASON

Because of failing eyesight, Mrs. Minnie Hanselman, 77, of 244 Willits street, committed suicide Sunday by hanging herself.

Her body was discovered by a friend, William Meacham, 6925 Mission street, who notified the widow's son, Andrew Hanselman, 506 Hillside blvd. The tragedy occurred in the attic of Mrs. Hanselman's home.

Mrs. Hanselman's farewell note reads: "Dear children and friends: Forgive me, so may God. My eyes are fading fast. I cannot cope with the dirt around the house. I can't do the work. Thanks for your kindness."

Private funeral services were conducted Monday at the chapel at W. C. Lasswell & Co. Inurnment was at Cypress Lawn Memorial Park.

KATHLEEN NORRIS

The Boss Sex?

I'VE JUST FINISHED reading an article in "The Saturday Evening Post." It is by a man named Jerome Ellison, and is titled "Is The U.S. Really Run By Women?" Whether the article makes me most mad or most proud it is hard to say.

To take the good side first, Mr. Ellison does full justice to the amazing record of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, an organization to which, in several of its many branches, I have long belonged. He lists the influence of women in lawmaking, in the establishment of libraries and scholarships, gymnasia and special schools and clinics. He praises—but why go on? It would take every page of this paper to enumerate them.

Food for Europe, clothes for the destitute, millions of hours of reading to the blind, millions of visits to hospital wards, millions of earnest, unselfish women meeting, consulting, contriving to make this world a better place in which all of us may live. Women spend 85 per cent of the national income, own half our industrial stocks, pay 80 per cent of inheritance taxes, and could numerically outvote men by one million if they chose to round up the vote.

In other words, women play fair with their nation. But does their nation play fair with them? I think Mr. Ellison misses one of the most important points in this whole question, and I think it ought to be italicized. Women have done all that they have done, without government grants of money. That is the stupefying fact.

Women Aren't Boss

Women have no one in government to ask that an appropriation of some 300 or 500 millions be made for the all-important work they do. And that's why I think the answer to Mr. Ellison's question is no, the United States is not run by women. Women do the best they can with the means at hand, they fight cancer and hookworm, (encourage Scouts and Campfire Girls,) make cakes, gather rummage, watch the town fathers as they discuss sanitation and saloon licenses, put up their thousands of dollars monthly to send food overseas, and have no share in the billions that are so airily demanded for projects at home and abroad, projects with which they have no sympathy.

No, Mr. Ellison, if women ever had a stay on war boards, there would be no wars. Women don't pay what they have to pay for seven pounds of weeping, helpless babyhood, to pick the cream of it and send it away to kill the cream of other nations, the innocent boys who never had an ugly or revengeful thought in their lives.

Women know—they don't have to be told—that killing never stopped killing. That hate never engendered love. That destruction is not the surest way to mercy and fellowship and rebuilding.

Slips of the Tongue

And so one woman at least finds a good deal of the "bless-the-dear-foolish-creatures" attitude in Mr. Ellison's article. He tells one or two mild little stories of slips of the tongue on the part of various chairwomen. Men can do that, too. Washington solons can do that, too. He dwells on one of the "main concerns" of one President as being a problem as to where new members for the senior clubs are coming from, because members like to stay among their familiar groups. It isn't flattering to any club, in the hideous crisis of today's affairs in our nation and in all the world, to quote this laughable little ladylike difficulty as "one of its main concerns." Or to pay a charming compliment to the figures of two middle-aged clubwomen who looked, as they walked across the clubhouse square, "like two coeds on their way to class." This is gallant in Mr. Ellison, but it certainly doesn't belong in an article of this nature.

No, it savors of that kindly patronage that men turn aside to pay to women as they walk to those sacred chambers where matters of national and international import are settled, those meetings that men alone attend.

As I write this my bag is packed for a flight to Houston, to attend the 60th annual convention of the General Federation of Womens Clubs. The national president, Mrs. Hiram Cole Houghton, a wise, humane, experienced woman, would be an excellent person to disperse a sum as presently unimportant as a billion is in our national spending today. If women can do what they have done with only such financial help as their own generosity and powers of personal solicitation can win them, what mightn't they do if men took this work seriously?

AFFAIRS OF STATE

by Henry C. MacArthur

Sacramento—(CNS)—A recent ruling of Attorney General Edmund G. Brown gives boards of supervisors wide powers in connection with the constitutional amendment adopted in 1950 which requires a vote of the people before a city or county housing project is established.

Through District Attorney E. L. Means, of Yolo county, a question as to the extent of the vote necessary to authorize a housing project was annswered by the attorney general. The answer is that when such a project is located outside an incorporated city, the board of supervisors may designate the area of an unincorporated town within which the housing project is to be established.

The constitutional amendment approved by the people states that:

"No low rent housing project shall hereafter be established, developed, constructed or acquired in any manner by the state or any state public body until a majority of the qualified electors of the city, town or county, as the case may be, in which it is proposed to develop, construct or acquire the same, voting on such issue, approve such project by voting in favor thereof at an election to be held for that purpose, or at any general or special election."

Neither, according to the Brown ruling, are townships as a whole concerned with the election, for the township lines, his opinion says, are not to be taken into consideration by the county board of supervisors in specifying the area in which the election should be held.

"The fact that the proposal," the opinion says, "emanates from a city housing authority does not mean that the electors of the entire county must have a voice in the matter. Under some circumstances, a county housing authority may establish a project within the corporate limits of a city, or a city housing authority may do so in unincorporated areas outside city limits.

"It is the location of the proposed project, and not its auspices, which determines the body of electors who are to pass upon the matter."

However, if the proposed housing project is "at or near" either an incorporated or unincorporated area, then the voters of the entire county must be called upon to sanction the establishment of the housing area, the opinion goes on to state. But with the supervisors given the power to designate the areas of the unincorporated communities, a housing project easily could be designated as "in" the unincorporated community, rather than "at or near," for the board of supervisors would be its own guide and authority as to the overall area to include for purposes of voting on the establishment of the project.

As a result of the opinion, unless its conclusions are challenged in the courts, Yolo county can call four separate elections, in the Esparto, Yolo (town), Knights Landing and Bryte-Broderick areas, none of which are incorporated, to decide whether the residents of those areas want a low cost, public housing project, rather than have the entire county vote on the four proposed projects as a whole.

The Sacramento Scene

by H. C. MacArthur, C.N.S.

Sacramento—(CNS)—Most far-reaching news of this week was contained in an 126-page report on sales tax auditing by Legislative Auditor A. Alan Post. While the report received but little attention it charged the State Board of Equalization claims it gets a $5 return in sales taxes for every $1 spent in auditing private business establishments. But, the report says, the return actually is only $1.28 for every $1 spent!

It was pointed out the report could be the opening gun in a 1953 drive to set up a Department of Revenue for collection of all state taxes, a move long recommended to wipe out duplication of auditing and in the long run, effect economies which might save the taxpayers thousands of dollars in administrative costs.

The report points out the board operates on the theory there are four principalities in California, each one supervised separately, and recommends consolidation of audit activity and a centralized pool of auditors.

EXECUTIVE: Governor Warren spent the week in Japan, visiting the 40th Division (California National Guard). Some observers thought the Governor had more in mind than patting the boys on the head as he made the sudden trip, especially as he lunched with Governor Tom Dewey, of New York, in Honolulu. Dewey was the 1948 presidential candidate when Warren ran for the No. 2 spot. There are thousands of California voters interested in the 40th Division, who might be impressed at the chief executive flying all the way to Japan to see that the Division is being treated right.

TRAFFIC SAFETY: The senseless and useless slaughter of more than 3,000 people on California highways last year and a record which promises to equal or better that number in 1951, finally is waking a few state officials up to the safety problem. The Governor has called another traffic safety conference for next October, and appointed a safety committee. Commissioner Clifford E. Peterson of the Highway Patrol has put a special squad on the "Bloody Bayshore" highway down the San Francisco peninsula, one of the state's most critical accident spots, and the Division of Highways is making surveys to determine how some of the more dangerous places can be made safer. Yet accidents, deaths and injuries for the California motorist increase.

VEHICLE REGISTRATION: When the Department of Motor Vehicles installed expensive machinery to handle registration cards, it believed deliveries to the public could be speeded up and the cost of operation cut down. Now the Department is back experimenting with hand-typed registration slips, which it says can be handed applicants 48 hours after applications are turned in.

AERONAUTICS: The State Aeronautics Commission announced the resignation of Warren E. Carey, its director. Carey, with the commission four years, made an outstanding survey of California's airport needs, and had the Commission wellon its way to becoming one of the major Departments of government. His successor has not been named.

PROPERTY ASSESSMENT: As the State Board of Equalization held to its 50 percent of market value of public utilities property assessment, and denied protests of 22 major utilities, Controller Thomas H. Kuchel, ex-officio member of the Board, introduced a resolution calling for a statewide committee to study assessment standards. These are so caried, the board found, that the county range is from 24 to 46 per cent on common property. Kuchel's resolution states uniformity should be sought. He unsuccessfully opposed the Board's non-action on equalizing assessments.

BLIND CENTER ROW: An attempt by the State Department of Education to fire E. C. Copeland, superintendent of the blind training center in Oakland, back-fired on Dr. Roy E. Simpson, director. James Phillips, CSEA attorney, got papers firing Copeland thrown out by the personnel board. If Simpson wants to try it again, he must start over with new papers. The row dates back to legislation by Senator Arthur H. Breed, Oakland, which split the blind center into two organizations, one for orientation and one for training.

AGED PROBLEMS: The governor has called a state-wide conference in October to discuss problems of the aged, particularly with reference to more employment opportunities for elderly people who dislike to retire at age 65.

CASH BALANCE: The state controller said California had a cash excess of $86 million dollars on hand July 31, and reported an increase in revenue for the first month of the new fiscal year, as well as a decrease in general fund state expenditures, both compared to July, 1950.

Editor's note: The many problems confronting the Jefferson Elementary School District officials require a careful study by parents of the information contained in this article. We suggest the article be clipped and kept for future reference.

The Jefferson Elementary Schools will open Tuesday, September 11, with an all time high enrollment of 2750 children expected.

All children new to the District are to register on Friday, September 7, between 9 a.m. and 12 noon. Children entering kindergarten are to be registered at this time. It is not essential the kindergarten child be brought for registration, but a birth certificate or other written proof of birth date is required. Children who were four years old on or before March 1, 1951, may enter kindergarten. Children who were five years old on or before March 1, 1951, may enter first grade. The laws of the State of California permit no exception to this rule.

Children should be registered in the school serving the area in which they live. The new Westlake School will not be ready for use until sometime in November and the classes scheduled for this school will go on double session with classes in three other schols. Hence, registration for Westlake children will be in the school they are scheduled to attend. Postcards are being mailed to notify parents of children on double session, the school and the session their child will attend.

The schools of the District and the area and classes they will serve beginning in Septtmber are as follows:

COLMA SCHOOL
Hillside & Market Streets

1. All seventh and eighth grade pupils in the District. One fourth grade, two fifths, and two sixths from Westlake.
2. All classes on double session.

Fifth and sixth grade children living: east and west of San Jose from the top of the hill at Wellington and Mission to the county line; north of Gambetta including pupils residing on the north side of the street only (odd numbered houses); east and west of Mission from the top of the hill and south to the high school; in the Mission Auto Court and the New S. F. Auto Court.
2. No classes on double session.

GARDEN VILLAGE

LOWER HEADLIGHTS

When driving at night, motorists should use the lower headlight beam when following another car upon the highway, according to the National Automobile Club. The law prescribes the lowering of the beam when meeting a car coming in the opposite direction but courtesy and safety practice demands the dropping of the beam when following another car.

DO NOT SCRAPE SPARK PLUGS

Spark plug porcelain has a glazed surface that may become damaged if scraped with a knife or other hard instrument. When cleaning is necessary, the California State Automobile Association suggests that carbon deposits be softened by soaking the plugs in gasolnie, kerosene or distillate, then wiping with a clean rag saturated with one of these fluids.

TALK OF THE TOWN

By DIANE DALY

Well the summer season is slowly but inevitably drawing to a close—those who are packing for a pre-Labor day return to the onslought of civilization only serve to remind all of us to make the most of the time remaining.

In only a month, one can become sepia-toned, lazy and contemplative, quite changed physically. Away from the everyday scene of activity, one's inner perspective changes likewise, giving credence to the old adage "a change is as good as a rest."

Watching the healthy brown little bodies of our children, running and splashing in the sun and water, one is filled with humble thanksgiving for their priceless heritage of well-being, which is such a blessing in disguise, scarcely appreciated by so many parents who take this "for granted," and have never known the cruel anxiety of parents, whose children are not so fortunate.

When you get out to a cabin sans the modern conveniences, you begin to be aware also of the rare ingenuity of the American inventor, and the equal zealousness of the American husband, who keeps his home equipped with every time-saver available, so that his wife will be spared unecessary drudgery and find more time for leisure. Friend husband himself, free of the work-a-day world, becomes the idol of his children (participating in every kind of junket) and becoming the personable partner you fell in love with—A little grayer perhaps—but ever so much more handsome and deer. He, in turn, remembers with some satisfaction, his well ordered home, his robust children, his business achievements and his happiness in general, which is something he has not had the chance to evaluate in some time.

All in all, a change is not only a rest, it is a chance to see yourself in a different light. Sometimes it is a test of patience and fortitude, but more often a happy experience of becoming really acquainted with your own family. It is a time of "doing nothing"—though not exactly that, for when you are doing nothing, you are doing something which is perhaps better than any doctor's prescription in unwinding those taut nerves.

"Doing nothing" for me has been surprisingly rewarding. I have again become a confidante of my son, who finds a ready listener to his detailed accounts of his fishing and hunting forays. . . I have read several books, taken some satisfactory pictures, and learned the fine points of Canasta. I have mastered a good backstroke and enjoyed many exhaustive swimming sessions, followed by luxurious naps, both sound and sweet.

No one can ask, or get, much more out of life than tranquillity of body and soul, and when one has this, the deep humility and overwhelming thankfulness for the little things we all "take for granted" is compelling.

Even though the summer is waning and we must all return to the more serious side of life, we do so with a renewed set of values, that should stay summery long after the leaves begin to fall.

Cub Scout Pack 84 Goes On Excursion

Broadmoor Cub Scout Pack 84 took its fifth and last excursion of the summer last Monday aboard the S. S. Frank Cox on San Francisco bay.

Three Den mothers—Mrs. Adelaide Mattison, Mrs. Leroy Kreuger, and Mrs. William Spry, 36 cub-scouts and five mothers took the two and a half hour cruise aboard the pleasure craft.

According to Mrs. Mattison, "the boys seemed to have a wonderful time and the only fatality was a lost hat."

The annual round-up and picnic for parents and cubs will be held September 16—the location to be announced at a later date.

The other four excursions, each one planned and supervised by a Den mother, were to the Oakland Overland Train staiton by ferryboat, to the Mission Bay Roundhouse on Bayshore, to the Maritime Museum at the foot of Polk street, and to the Golden State Dairy on Guerrero street.

Centering the refreshment table was a large stork, and other decorations for the evening's function were also carried out in keeping with the theme of the party.

Guests were members of the Friendly Neighbors Club and relatives of the guest of honor.

Those invited were: Mrs. Pat Urbanus, Mrs. Mabel Warner, Mrs. Rose Fawke, Miss Kay Johnson, Mrs. Lorraine Bovero, Mrs. Lillian Caime, Mrs. Sally Cambridge, Mrs. Eleanor Doyle, Mrs. Ann MacNealy, Mrs. Doris Olmanson, Mrs. Stella Seidel, Mrs. Wilma Van Aken, Mrs. Jerry Vickers, Mrs. Mildred Radciskowski and Mrs. Dolores Warner.

Total Receipts For City Of Daly City Hit $440,375

Receipts of the City of Daly from local taxes,, subventions and grants, licenses and permits, and other sources for 1948-49 and 1949-50 were reported by California Taxpayers' association today as follows:

1948-49: General Property Tax, $134,538; Subventions and Grants, $103,650; Licenses and Permits, $29,702; Other Revenue, $43,130; Total Receipts, $314,020.

1949-50: General Property Tax, $143,032; Subventions & Grants, $85,542; Licenses & Permits, $74,616; Other Revenue, $137,185; Total Receipts, $440,375.

The taxpayer pays the bill for city government—and every other governmental level—regardless of which pocket he has to take the money from, the Taxpayers' association said.

Property taxes and subventions and grants—taxes collected by the state or by Uncle Sam and "shared" with local governments—provide the lion's share of the revenues of California cities.

Economy and improved procedures at the local government level can hold down the impact of local taxes.

With the 1951-52 fiscal year well along, local governments, including cities, could well survey their activities—and their procedures—to see that the most efficient methods are being followed and that waste is being eliminated.

Bay Area Residents Warned Of High Pressure Salesmen

State Insurance Commissioner John R. Maloney today warned residents of the Bay Area that high pressure salesmen for unlicensed and unregulated medical and health "services" (so-called), operating out of Los Angeles, were known to be actively soliciting in this vicinity.

"Many of these organizations," said Commissioner Maloney, "are what are generally termed 'fly by night' outfits whose activities skirt on the fringes of the law and whose contracts are drawn in such a way that they are illusory. In addition, investigation discloses that their salesmen have been guilty of the grossesst types of misrepresentation. Most of their victims believe that they are purchasing accident and health insurance only to be bitterly disillusioned at the very time of disability and need."

Bay Area residents are urged by Commissioner Maloney to beware of the glib-tongued high pressure solicitors for these rackets who will be recognized by their insistence upon an immediate, on-the-spot cash down-payment by the victim before he has the opportunity to verify the authenticity and status of the organization. Persons solicited should be careful to require full identification by the salesman of his name and local address and of the organization represented by him, and to make proper inquiry at their local Better Business Bureau or the State Insurance Department, 1182 Market Street, San Francisco, before making any payment of money to such salesman.

Second Annual Folk Dance Festival Slated For Monday At Jefferson High School

COME TO THE DALY CITY FOLK DANCE FESTIVAL ON LABOR DAY

This picture shows part of the 500 participants in last years Daly City Folkdance Festival at Jefferson Union High School football field. The festival attracted dancers from as far as Garberville, Mendocina County. The Daly City Recreation Department is sponsoring a bigger Festival this year with folk and square dancing at the high school on Labor Day, September 3, outdoors 1:30 to 5:30, and indoors, 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. The host folkdance club is our own Calico Clickers. Raymond Pabst is chairman of the event.

Randy Randolph, the man with the hat and beard, in the right foreground of the picture, is one of the outstanding callers in the State. He hails from San Francisco, is an honorary member of the Calico Clickers, and will be one of several outstanding callers on hand.

Picturesque folk dances from many different countries and the homey gaiety of the square dance will be combined to make Daly City's second annual Labor Day Folk Dance Festival at the Jefferson Union high school an outstanding entertainment event to which the public is cordially invited.

The afternoon and evening program of colorful and exciting dancing is the grand finale to the Daly City Recreation Department's summer program. Hosts are the Calico Clickers, the local folk and square dance club.

Exhibition and general folk and square dancing will take place both at the afternoon and evening sessions. Time for the afternoon's festivities is from 1:30 to 5:30 p.m. and the evening's from 7:30 to 11:30 p.m.

In extending an invitation to the festival, Elman Rose, recreational director states, "Those of you who had the pleasure of witnessing last year's dramatic festival know what to expect but to the newcomers and those who were out of town, we assure you that you can't afford to miss it. This year's festival will be bigger and better than last year's.

"Labor Day is Folk Dance Day in Daly City," has been the slogan of the hard working committee in charge of arrangements for the festival. We are indebted to the following committee members: printing, Frances and Norman Peterson; publicity and promotion, Cecil and Al Saarinen, Vi and Gene Prigmore, Mary and Larry Ewing; sound, Carlos Baumgartner; refreshments, Curly and Anita McArdle, Jack and Pearl Cain."

Ray Pabst, general chairman, announces that the Calico Clickers, hosts of the festival, would like to have everyone see the progress they have made under the Daly City Recreation department and that after viewing them others will be interested in learning how to folk dance.

With this thought in mind, the Recreation Department is again instituting a new beginner's class in folk dancing which starts the middle of September. Muriele Pabst, the Recreation Department's folk dance specialist, will be the instructor. Further details will be announced later.

DEAR PARENTS

By Jane Keith

With school time rolling around again in the very near future it might be interesting to discuss the matter of buying children's shoes—and for a most important reason. That children's shoes wear out is no news to any of us parents, but did you ever stop to wonder why so many of them wear out within one or two weeks of being purchased? I have, and think it high time for more of us parents to investigate the matter!

A side comment from an irate shoe-repair man put me on the track of inferior shoes and here is what he grumbled out over his counter.

"Humph! Some day people are going to start wondering why shoe manufacturers aren't made to state in writing just what materials they put into the shoes they foist off onto you——" He didn't quite SAY jerks, but his tone implied it most fully.

Frankly, I thought the man was mumbling in his beard until I started asking around, then I found his information only too, too correct! It seems that we have a "Food and Drug" act to protect us from ptomaine, poor cosmetics, inferior drugs, etc., but shoes have been lost in the shuffle—even though they are one of our most necessary, expensive, and most frequently replenished items of clothing!

The Better Business Bureau had no information on the subject, which shows a lack of interest and inquiry on the part of John Doe, purchaser! Either John doesn't realize he is being cheated or feels he has no recourse against "big business," which he most definitely HAS! Perhaps, since shoes are not the potential or actual killers of botulinism, or adulterated drugs, Mr. Doe feels the thing can ride without action being taken by him . . . BUT, what about the financially killing part of this deal!

Few women these days will buy clothing without a "Sanforized" label; blouses, dresses and other material washables are left on the counter if they are not labeled "Color fast, tubfast"—yet these same women will buy shoes that cannot be repaired because of the unstated and shoddy material used in their construction! How about it?

Make some inquiries yourselves from reputable shoe men—ask to see a shoe box. See if you can find—anyplace on that box or shoe—what materials it contains. Think it over as you look at other items in your home from peanut butter to pot-holders. Most of THEM will tell you exactly what they contain, how much of what and what quality. When we are able to do the same with our shoes both you and your pocketbook will see the difference!

HIGH SCHOOL PLAYGROUND

This week the final tournaments were held. The most popular tournament was the Boys A Pool tournament held on Thursday. As yet the winner has not been determined because the time would not allow the final match. All the matches were interesting and very close. Those successful so far and who will be in the final play-off are, Benny Peralta, Ron Bourdan and Fred Bertetta.

On Friday while the A Boys were playing Paddle Tennis at Marchbanks, (see accompanying article for results), the B and C groups had a tournament here. Gerry Bertetta won 1st place for the Girls with Terry Peralta winning 2nd. In the Boys group John Schwaninger was the 1st place winner and Dante Chelossi was 2nd place winner.

Bill Hix and his brother Bruce won the ribbons in the C division. The final week promises to be a busy week too. Monday a large group of "movie attenders" saw the final episode of the Red Barry Serial. On Tuesday a Hat Show and Amateur hour were scheduled. The amateur hour was a preview of talent for the Wednesday evening show, already such talented artists as Carol Saumer, Don Jennings, John Schwaninger, Lyn Kirkhofer, Emily Valdez, and Andy Ruelas have signed up. Then Wednesday evening the Arts and Crafts Show and Amateur Hour. Friday will be clean up day and farewell to all with pleasant memories of a successful summer and promises to "see you next year."

ARTS AND CRAFTS
by Regina Warchot

This week arts and crafts had an exciting week. Our exhibit was Wednesday night, August 29, at the Jefferson Union High Sscholo. The cafeteria, where the exhibit was set up, was decorated in blue and gold, and at least one object of each item that the children made during the summer was on exhibit.

One of the main features of the exhibit was a puppet display. The audience enjoyed the puppets, who made motions to music played by local instrumentalists. There was 45 children taking part in the exhibit. The director of arts and crafts, Regina Warchot, would like to thank everyone who participated in the exhibit. I hope to see all of you again next year.

S. F. Trafficways Plan Before Board

The San Francisco Board of Supervisors has before it for approval a long-deferred master plan of trafficways for San Francisco, following acceptance by the Planning Commission.

The plan includes a freeway girdling the downtown area and a wide loop of highways circling the northeast third of the city. Other freeways would radiate outward to link these loops with the Golden Gate Bridge, Bay Bridge and Bayshore and Junipero Serra highways.

Traffic Conference Slated At State Capitol October 25-26

Sacramento, Aug. 30. (CNS)—A state-wide traffic conference will be held at the state capitol October 25 and 26, it was announced here today.

Called at the instance of Governor Warren, the conference will be to devise ways and means to take corrective measures and decrease the number of traffic accidents on California highways, which take more than 3,000 lives annually.

Individuals and representatives of organizations interested in safety will be invited to attend the sessions.

RECKLESS DRIVING

The ability to drive recklessly without an accident is no measure of a person's driving skill, reminds the California State Automobile Association. On the contrary, this is the mark of an unskilled driver. Always drive at moderate speeds and be alert to possible danger on the highway.

The University of Washington, with a 582 acre campus, is within the city limits of Seattle.

AIRCRAFT CARRIER USS PRINCETON RETURNED TO SAN DIEGO AUGUST 29

The aircraft carrier USS Princeton arrived in San Diego Wednesday, August 29, completing a nine months tour of duty in the Far East. On board was Carrier Air Group 19.

Air Group 19 Skyraider divebombers, Corsair fighter bombers, and Panther jets, roared over enemy territory lending close air support to UN ground troops.

On May 1 the Princeton Skyraiders conducted the first inland torpedo strike in the history of carrier warfare when they struck at the Hwachon Dam. The destruction of the two dam gates flushed out entrenched communist troops along the Han River.

Air Group 19 is particularly well known to UN ground troops for the manner in which they struck from the air at Red soldiers, paving the way for UN advances. During the months of June alone, the Air Group was credited with destroying 858 enemy troops.

Capt. William O. Gallery, USN, commanded the Princeton through August 19, the last day of her combat tour. He was relieved by Capt. Paul D. Stroop on August 20. Also aboard is Rear Adm. George R. Henderson, USN, Commander of Carrier Division FIVE.

Air Group 19 is commanded by Cmdr. Arthur L. Maltby, USN, Phoenix, Ariz.

One Daly City man returned aboard the carrier: C. E. Scarborough, 148 Bruno ave.

Purse Is Lost From Moving Automobile

It's no trick at all to lose a coin purse from the fender of a moving car as was proved by Mrs. Michael Conaty, 372 Bellevue avenue, Saturday afternoon.

The purse, loss of which was reported to Daly City police, contained $22 in bills. It is of brown and gold colored leather.

Events that led up to the loss began when Mrs. Conaty dropped her purse on the garage floor after she and Mr. Conaty had returned from a shopping trip. Mr. Conaty picked up the purse and placed it on the fender of the car, from which Mrs. Conaty forgot to retrieve it before her husband went out in the car again.

It is believed that the purse fell off the car somewhere in the 300 block on Bellevue avenue. Subsequent searching failed to located it.

ANNUAL CALIFORNIA STATE FAIR OPENED TODAY IN SACRAMENTO

Sacramento, Aug. 30.—Packed with stellar attractions and teeming with eye-filling exhibits, the 92nd California State Fair will open in Sacramento today for a run of eleven eventful days.

The 1951 edition of California's sparkling autumnal festival, which is dedicated to youth, will be ushered in at impressive opening day ceremonies on The Mall, the tree-lined avenue leading from the Fair's main entrance to the Counties Building.

Thousands of youths, guests of the Fair, will gather on The Mall for the official opening of the exposition.

The ceremonies will center around the statue of "Youth," carved from a redwood tree by Carroll Barnes, noted California sculptor. Barnes is scheduled to make a talk on the youth theme of the Fair. Then thousands of multi-colored balloons will be sent soaring into the sky to the accompaniment of bands playings "I Love You, California" and the big show will be under way.

At the conclusion of the ceremonies, thousands of Fair-goers will spill over into the beautifully-landscaped Fair-grounds to inspect the wondrous exhibits and enjoy the unexcelled entertainment concentrated on the 207-acre site.

Crowds will stream into the great Counties Building, filling to over-flowing with the displays of 38 counties, nine foreign nations, the California Wine Cellar and the Foreign Trade Zone of the Port of San Francisco.

Others will make their way to the wide-expanse of barns where thousands of head of livestock await judging; or to the great Art Show, the gorgeous Flower Show, the score or more exhibits in the Educational Area, the elaborate Armed Services exhibit, the comprehensive farm machinery exhibit and countless others, including the Junior Museum.

The great exhibit of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company in Governor's Hall will be a magnet for many others. And the atomic energy exhibit sponsored by the State Office of Civil Defense will draw large crowds.

Afternoon crowds will enjoy a program of thrilling horse races, free vaudeville shows, band concerts, puppet shows and many other free attractions.

In the evening, the big Night Show starring Jerry Colonna, the dazzling Pageant of California Fashions and the spectacular fireworks will enthrall visitors.

All of this, and more, will be on tap for the weekend. Saturday, Sept. 1, has been designated Contra Costa County Day, Napa County Day, Pakistand Day, Press-Radio Day, San Mateo County Day and Armed Forces Day. Sunday, Sept. 2, is Sciots Day, Eagles Day, F.F.A. Day, Red Cross Day and El Dorado County Day. On Sunday, too, scores of rocket-like speedboats—outboards—will race over the Fair's aquatic course.

A great thrill for youngsters will be provided on Sept. 4 when their idol, Hopalong Cassidy, makes an appearance in a new unit of the Night Show featuring The Sons of the Pioneers.

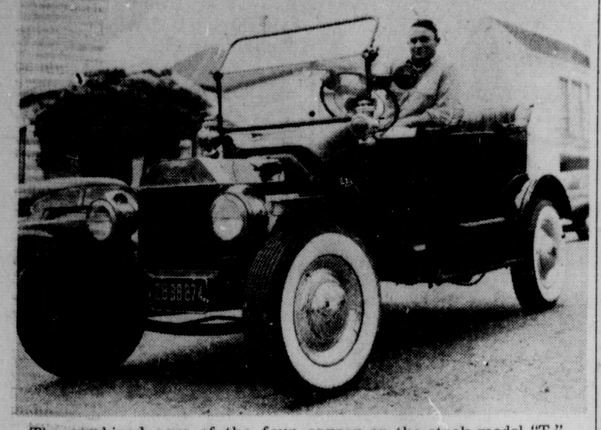
'Tweren't Like This In The Old Days; This "T" Will Go 85 In Second Gear



The combined ages of the four antique cars in "Lefty" Intaschi's basement garage total 151 years. His latest car (beside his 1949 Ford) is a 1919 model "T" Ford.

There are also two 1914 model "T" Fords and a 1906 Locomobile of which only one is in good working order.

His pride and joy is a 1914 "T" Ford Touring Sedan, which is pictured in the accompanying photograph.

The model "T" was given to Lefty and his brother by the manager of the B & G Auto Wrecking yards in 1934. Lefty and his brother helped to overhaul the Ford for the Old Timer's race from Sacramento to Reno, Nevada, but the car was never entered in the race.

For a number of years prior to his entrance in the Armed Service during World War II, Lefty used the "T" with its original engine, but upon being discharged he decided to "hop-up" the engine.

He bought a V-8 engine and rebuilt it with Eddie Myers' heads and dual carburators. He took the differential from a model "A" and also installed a high-speed, ful-racing cam shaft.

The brakes are hydraulic and there is a self-starter which didn't appear on the stock model "T."

Carbide lamps were used for illumination originally, but Lefty inserted seal-beams within the old brass carbide lamp casing for more effective lighting. Brass parking lights, fed by coal oil, are clamped on the windshield.

The frame and upholstery have not been altered since the car was first purchased, but there is no canvas top for the car; Lefty is still searching for a usuable one.

Instead of the conventional "T" tires, Lefty has replaced them with new white sidewalls, and repainted the frame with black lacquer.

As far as gas consumption is concerned, Lefty pointed out that he took a trip to San Jose from Daly City and used but three gallons of gas.

The old Locomobile was a very efficient automobile in its day, according to Lefty. He hopes to overhaul his chain-driven, three-speed-progressive transmission 1906 model in the near future.

Lefty, a mechanic by trade, said that he enjoys restoring and "hopping-up" old cars as a hobby.

He is constantly searching for usable parts in old shops and wrecking yards, and he has a large collection of old automobile head lamps to show for his efforts.

National Automobile Club Gives Directions To Preserve Venison

With deer hunting season upon Californians, many are enjoying their long planned hunting trips and others still look forward to the taking of a buck.

One of the unfortunate things about deer hunting is that half of the deer killed by hunters is reported to spoil before the meat is eaten.

To prevent the loss of this tasty venison, the National Automobile Club reveals a few simple rules which will be of value in saving the meat for the table.

No Water Used

Following the cleaning of the deer, it can be wiped clean and stuffed with ferns or sewn shut with twine. Water should not be used. Then the carcass should be taken immediately into camp.

Protection from flies is the most important item in care of the meat. If possible, the deer should be hung by its horns, then skinned, after which it should be allowed to hang in this position until all the blood has drained. With contact from the air, a glaze will form that will protect the meat from air and moisture. Some use black pepper to aid in this process, but salt and water should not be used.

Keep The Flies Away

After the deer has been carefully wiped out, it should be hung as high as possible and covered with a sack. The main idea is to keep the flies away.

At night, the covering should be removed, but in the morning it should again be covered and the meat wraped in either canvas or blankets.

By repeating this process as long as the hunters remain in the field —covering the meat during the day time and leaving it exposed to the air during the night—the meat will be kept free from contact with flies and will remain at proper temperature.

Wrap Deer Well

When breaking camp for the homeward trek, the best method to transport the meat is to cover it and wrap it well in blankets.

If followed, these rules outlined by the National Automobile Club will save your venison for enjoyment at the home dining table.

Tools for cleaning purposes include a good pocket knife with a pointed blade, a small saw or hand axe, a buckskin leather thong about three feet long and some form of sack to use as covering when the meat has been dressed. Deer sacks can be purchased from most sport stores.

NATIONAL PISTOL MEET TO BE HELD FOR FIRST TIME IN CALIFORNIA

Rifle and pistol shooters all over the country are oiling up their pet shooting irons and making last-minute adjustments on triggers and sights, preparing for the first National Rifle and Pistol Championships ever held on the Pacific Coast.

From September 26 to October 6 over 2,500 of the country's best civilian and military marksmen will fire for the three championships at stake, the National .30 Caliber Rifle Championship, (Sept. 27-30), the National Smallbore Championship (.22 caliber rifles) (Oct. 3-6) and the National Pistol Championship (Sept. 30-October 6.)

The .30 caliber title race will be held at Camp Matthews, California, under the sponsorship of the U. S. Marine Corps, and the smallbore rifle and pistol chases in San Francisco. It will mark the 66th renewal of the National Rifle Association events, which outdate the World Series by 30 years, and the Kentucky Derby by two.

While the National Smallbore and Pistol Championships have been held in several sections of the country since World War II, the 30 caliber shooting returns to the American shooting scene for the first time since 1940.

It is expected that over 1,000 Marine, Army, Navy and civilian shooters will compete in the revived matches that were last held on the world-famous Camp Perry, Ohio, ranges.

Appellate Court Upholds Conviction Of Silvio Oliva

The conviction of Fisherman's Wharf restaurant operator Silvio Oliva for illegal possession of striped bass has been upheld by the appellate division of the San Francisco superior court.

Oliva was fined $500 late last year for possession of 514 pounds of game fish at his Exposition Fish Grotto. George Galban, Grotto cook, was fined $100.

In denying the appeal, Superior Judge Preston Devine stated:

"It would seem that where there are more than 500 pounds of fish in a restaurant that does not sell fish in such quantity, it is a legitimate inference for the trial court to draw that possession was for sale purposes."

DOVE HUNTING SEASON OPENS SEPTEMBER 1ST

California clam diggers and shotgun owners may hear the call of the outdoors September 1, when, according to the Division of Fish and Game, seasons open for the taking of clams, cockles, doves, sage hens, and brush, cottontail, and jack rabbits in prescribed areas.

The annual dove hunting season, recently announced by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, extends from September 1 to September 30. Bag limit is 10 birds per day.

In all counties north of San Luis Obispo County, the four-month restriction against the taking of cockles comes to an end the first of the month. A bag limit of 50, and size limit of 1½ inches will apply.

Humboldt and Monterey bay areas will be opened to the taking of all species of clams. There is no closed season elsewhere.

In Mono County, sage hens become legal targets for a two-day hunt starting September 1. Bag and possession limit is two birds.

The brush and cottontail rabbit hunting season starts a four-month run September 1 in southern California districts 4, 4⅛, 4¾, and 22. Bag and possession limit is four per day.

Jack rabbits, a year-round target elsewhere, may be taken until December 31 in southern California districts 4, 4⅛, and 4¾, 19, 20, and 22. There is no bag limit.

Mercury Plumbers Are Champs In Softball League

by Harry Aronson

Tuesday, August 21, the Mercury Plumbers cinched the championship by topping the Collins Street Boys, 17-2. George Morrison, Mercury's ace hurler, gave up only two hits while his mates racked up 22 in the lopsided tilt.

Hank Suelzle, Mercury's short stop, slammed out two homers to pace his team with 4 for 5. Dan Wong also contributed a four bagger and Tom Tromborg, Lue Birjack, and "Jack" Frost belted triples.

Gene Baciocco spoiled the evening for Morrison by slashing a mighty double in the seventh inning to lead the Boys team in the extra base hit department. Up to this stage of the game Bill Boghosian laid down a perfect bunt in the 5th inning to reach first safely and received credit for the first hit for his side.

The other game scheduled between the Eagles and the Firemen resulted in a win for the Firemen when the Eagles failed to field a full team, thus causing them to forfeit the contest.

SARTO'S DEFEAT WESTLAKE'S 2-1

Hartje, Westlake Realty pitcher, only allowed Sarto's 4 hits, but two of those hits were run-producing bingles by Sarto's left-fielder LaCosta which gave Sarto's a 2-1 victory.

Sarto pitched a masterful game for his team, allowing 6 well-scattered hits and striking out 11 batters.

Westlake Realty led the contest 1-0 until the seventh inning when LaCosta doubled to score Brengalini and tie-up the contest.

The winning run came in the eighth inning when center-fielder Pfenden walked and eventually scored on a hit by LaCosta.

Bill Rainey, former Sarto first-sacker, pitched a no-hit game against the Alameda Navy Supply team in Funston League competition last Sunday. Alameda scored two runs by virtue of two walks and a double steal, but Rainey's team won 6-2.

"Off The Record"

By Roy Hurlbert

CEREGHINO, JR.

Hey! What of Ed Cereghino? The Daly City kid got his third PCL victory last Saturday in Sacramento.

Ed didn't stay the distance, pitching perfect no-hit ball for four innings and weakening in the sixth. Cereghino was four runs in front when O'Doul waved him to the showers.

Blond Ed's biggest worry is endurance. He works swell for three or four frames, only to stagger thereafter. Weariness comes quick under presure. Especially for a 17 year old hurling to men who've faced all types of pitchers in their day.

Perhaps the Yanks should have shipped their prize to the Seal farm at Yakima. Eddie would have worked more often and experience is what he needs. Judging by his PCL feats, we think he would have been a big winner in the Class B Western International League. Maybe 20 wins at that.

Cereghino's won-3-lost-4 record so far in Triple A ball isn't bad for a start. He's just a boy among men but Ed's not getting any younger. He can play with the big boys ahead of his time.

FROM THE CELLAR

Famous last words: "If the majors continue their draft raids on the Pacific Coast League I'll put a padlock on Seals Stadium next year." The speaker, Mr. Paul Fagan.

Fagan, had it waited until '52, would have no need to buy a padlock. The fans aren't expected to stampede the stadium.

San Francisco, a good baseball town of 750,000, is blushing. The local ball club isn't second division, on paper. In the standings, even a ladder won't help.

Fagan took over the Seals with a promise of keeping a winning club. A lot of shuffling came about this season and still O'Doul couldn't produce a first division representative.

The material was there. We admit a manager can't play ball himself but he should get results if he has the players.

O'Doul did, but he flunked again. The last three years are poor proof of that so-called third major league.

We're glad Fagan washed his hands of the Seals. It was a bad investment. And Mr. Fagan, like so many other club owners, doesn't know the game.

We recommend one additional change in Seal plans for '52. FIRE O'DOUL. A change never hurt anybody.

BIG BAD BEARS

The heftiest, headiest line in pro ball and two of the nation's best QB's give the Chicago Bears a powerful bid for the NFL football title.

Bay Area fans saw more beef on the Kezar turf Sunday than Armour's has quartered in its Chicago stockyard. Chicago's offensive line averaged 232 pounds per man. The Bear tackles topped for muscle. Villanova's Paul Stenn is 245, Notre Dame's George Connor, 240; ends, Bill Wightkin, Notre Dame, 238; Ed Sprinkle, Hardin-Simmons, 207; guards, Dick Barwegan, Purdue, 230, and Ray Bray, Western Michigan, 235; center, Bulldog Turner, Hardin-Simmons, 235.

Heavier boys sat on both benches, but the Chicago moose were sharp and snappy despite their weight. Agile is hardly the word for it. Smooth would be better.

Johnny Lujack and Freshman Bob Wililams, both ex-Notre Dame generals, are the best one-two combo in pro ball. The Rams are happy with their twin passers, Waterfield and Van Brocklin, but Papa Bear George Halas has a great paid in Lujack and Williams. William's looked like an old pro in his short spell against the 49ers.

Lujack's backfield mates are Rvkovich (Illinois), Hunsinger (Florida) and Morrison (Ohio State). Plenty of youth, speed and weight. Wililam's leads a foursome of White (Arizona St.), Rowland McMurray), and Dottley (Mississippi). This second backfield is all-rookie. What a farm system!

Consider the Bears' other line and backfield guns and it looks like Chicago will be hot and heavy in the championship race.

They've always been a good team. Now even better.

Even the 49ers are feeling confident. They may not share company with the Browns, Bears, Rams and Giants, but they will make for an interesting season.

"Swede" Anderson And A. Rogers Win Doubles Event In Horseshoe Tournament At Marchbanks Park

by Harry Aronson

The men's doubles horseshoe tournament held at Marchbanks Park on Wednesday, August 22, was won by two South City entrants, "Swede" Anderson and A. Rogers. They moved into the finals by defeating the brother team of T. Beal and A. Beal. The score of their matches was 50-21 and 50-37.

In the other bracket, B. Franks and Firechief E. Kennedy won over J. Beal and L. Legerton, 50-24 and 50-18.

The play-off games between the Anderson-Rogers duo and the Kennedy-Franks team went to the boys from the "Windy City" by scores of 50-39 and 50-14.

The champs were awarded gold trophies and the second place tea received ribbons. Both awar were presented through the a spices of the Daly City Recreatic Department.

George McLeod, winner of th singles tournament held on Augu 15, was unable to compete, whi was a disappointment to him ar to "Swede" Anderson, who ha lost his match with McLeod in t semi-finals of the singles tourn ment. The massive Swede w anxious to seek revenge for h loss and would have liked anoth shot at McLeod.

It is hoped that another tourn ment can be arranged, possibly October, when the vacation perio is completed and the weather co ditions brighter.

Club 21 Defeats Contractors 13 - 6

August 23, Club 21 defeated the Contractors 13-6 and wound up in second place in league play with a record of 4 wins and 1 loss. The game was actually won before it started because the Contractors were unable to field a full team by game time, therefore forfeiting. However, with the aid of a few spectators, they managed to assemble a team.

Louie Drago, regular pitcher for brother Vic who normally plays Club 21 traded places with h first base and the latter with h slow ball kept the Contractors check, allowing 8 hits, most them singles.

Louie Drago slammed out a pr digious four bagger in the seco inning to account for the lo highlight of the game. L. Masso lead Club 21 in batting with for 4. Sam Hayes had a perfe record at the plate getting 3 f 3 to pace the revamped Contra tors.
